Young Dirty Bastard

Patriarchy

Inside the record

Somebody hands you a CD. Before the first drum hits, you've already turned it over twice. You know who made it. You've picked out a title you want to hear. Maybe it's "Pay Me." Maybe "Dirty Jones" has you looking for track thirteen. That minute with the case in your hands is part of the music, too.

That's the feeling behind this edition of Patriarchy. Young Dirty Bastard and Danny Dano Hamilton put their names on the production. Danny's idea for the release was simple: let the person who wants the record get it straight from the artist, with everything that belongs to it. The picture on the front. The names in the fold. All fourteen songs in the order they were meant to play.

Start with "Nominated." Give "Fish Tank" its turn. By the time "Quantum Lights" comes around, there's probably one you already want to run back. That one belongs to you now. Thanks for picking up the record.

The running order

TOTAL RUNNING TIME · 37:49

01 Nominated 2:44
02 Fish Tank 2:01
03 Birthday Cake 2:43
04 Pay Me 2:14
05 Award Show 3:48
06 Concierge 2:33
07 Representing 2:59
08 Proposal 3:09
09 Baby Boo 2:13
10 Ageless 3:12
11 Midtown 2:51
12 Next Man Up 2:16
13 Dirty Jones 2:06
14 Quantum Lights 3:00

Release credits

Recording artist · Young Dirty Bastard

Album production · Young Dirty Bastard and Danny Dano Hamilton

Direct-to-fan release concept · Danny Dano Hamilton and Young Dirty Bastard

Young Dirty Bastard Patriarchy

01 Nominated
02 Fish Tank
03 Birthday Cake
04 Pay Me
05 Award Show
06 Concierge
07 Representing
08 Proposal
09 Baby Boo
10 Ageless
11 Midtown
12 Next Man Up
13 Dirty Jones
14 Quantum Lights

